Jason represents plaintiffs and defendants in cases involving cutting-edge issues of business, financial, constitutional, and regulatory law.

He has experience litigating matters before the United States Supreme Court, the Florida Supreme Court, most federal courts of appeal, and federal and state trial courts across the country, including the Delaware Court of Chancery—the nation’s preeminent court for resolving business disputes.

Before joining the firm, Jason served as a law clerk for the Hon. Sam Glasscock III on the Delaware Court of Chancery and for the Hon. John K. Bush on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. Following his clerkships, Jason was an associate at an international law firm in Washington, D.C., before heading home to serve as a Deputy Solicitor General for the State of Florida, where he represented the State of Florida in cases of exceptional public importance.

Jason currently serves on the Fourth District Court of Appeal Judicial Nominating Commission, which provides the governor with nominees for appointment to Florida’s Fourth District Court of Appeal. He also recently taught a class on Delaware corporate litigation as an adjunct professor at the University of Florida Levin College of Law.
