PROFILE

Jared represents plaintiffs and defendants in a wide range of practice areas, including matters involving complex commercial litigation, constitutional law, and intellectual property.

Jared’s recent experience includes copyright litigation against a major tech platform, a high-stakes bankruptcy adversary proceeding, and a major health care insurance contract dispute. Jared also maintains a robust pro bono practice, representing indigent clients in criminal proceedings, organizations seeking to uphold reproductive freedoms, and incarcerated clients asserting constitutional rights.

In law school, Jared was a student attorney with the Harvard Criminal Justice Institute, a judicial extern with the Hon. Beverly Cannone on the Massachusetts Superior Court, and a semi-finalist in the Harvard Ames Moot Court Competition.
