PROFILE

Melissa is a skilled trial lawyer who advocates for commercial and individual clients on complex matters. She provides diligent and creative representation through all phases of litigation to achieve each client's unique goals.

Melissa's diverse practice focuses on business litigation, including partnership, contract, and corporate asset disputes, and a variety of real estate cases including landlord-tenant matters and construction defect. She also has a robust employment practice, handling both single plaintiff and class action matters with claims including discrimination, harassment, wage and hour, and workplace accidents involving injuries and fatalities. Melissa's dedication to these rapidly evolving industries allows her to effectively tackle novel legal issues that arise for her clients.

Melissa has successfully represented both plaintiffs and defendants in trial in federal and state court, and in private arbitration. Melissa is also experienced in guiding clients through mediation, agency investigations and hearings, administrative hearings, and appeals.
