PROFILE

Andrew is a proven trial lawyer with more than 40 civil jury trials to his credit. His vast trial experience includes representing both plaintiffs and defendants in high stakes cases, ranging from products liability to complex commercial disputes. He also has handled numerous appellate arguments.

Andrew's trial experience allows him to effectively counsel his clients on the benefits and risks of trial versus settlement. Also, because his adversaries know that he is not afraid to take cases all the way through verdict and appeal if necessary, Andrew has the credibility in settlement discussions that other litigators often lack.

Whether he is representing individual clients or Fortune 100 companies, Andrew places a high premium on client contact and communication. He believes deeply that listening to his clients is just as important as advising them. Andrew knows that his client's interests cannot truly be maximized unless he fully understands what they want and what potential outcomes are most important to them. This trait has allowed Andrew to design creative solutions to client problems.
